PAR'S FASHIONS.

FEMININE FOLLY AND FEMININE TASTE.

Dress during the great racing week of the Paris season, says the Paris 52 correspondent of The Times, might be described as the "sublimated essence of lavity, caprice, vanity; and extravagance without the slightest straining after cynical expresion or epigrammatic wit; Women wear things during that week which omphasize the height to which feminine folly and feminine taste can rise. The society woman wears priceless luce and wonderful pearls at the races when, as a rule, for the same kind of events earlier in the season she would be satisfied to put of a simple tailor-made. The mannequin, who is such a feature of the l'aris racecourse, 'surpasses' berself in the launching of novelties. Nothing daunts her. She will put on" the most amazing costume and carry it with the most perfect sang froid. Inconsistency is her watchword where her clothes are concerned and to muffle herself in velvet, furs, and other wintry habiliments on a hot June day is a conceit of which she is rather proud than otherwise. LUXURY IN MATERIALS.

Quite the most luxurious tendency in the matter of dress has been shown in the splendid materials with which women array themselves." The most lovely velvets, exquisite ermine, lace which must cost mighty sums of Cold and Hot Water throughout, money and need constant repairing, silks and satins, embroideries, buttons of precious stones, feathers of the rarest variety; everything, fact, which it is difficult to get and impossible to buy cheaply. The reason for this tendency is, of course the wonderful expedience shown by the managers of the big shops in having found a way to get every new fashion in their show rooms, 10 minutes after it has appeared in public. Nothing can prevent them from copying a drapery, a coat, or a sleeve, but there is much to prevent them from employing the same materials as those used by the big dressmaker, and it is here that the Rue de la Paix can hold its own. I uses materials of such beautiful quality that only very big purses can pay for them, and it is useless to say that a cheaper quality will give the same effect, for it will not, and in all the dresses which were, worn during the grande semaing it the quality of the material which counted almost more than anything,

SCOTTISH LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

EDINBURGH, June 30.

"SCOTLAND VET !" BOWDLERISED. The school children of Porth assembled in the Town Hall, where they saug, among other national pieces, "Sents who has and "Sectland Yet." The local educational authorities decided that in the latter song the children, instead of polluting their lips with the Bacchanslian suggestion-

"We'll drink a health to Scotland you Wi' a' the honours three, should gurgle forth these limpid lines by some local Bowdler-

"We'll sing a song for Scotland yet, The country of the free." If Bruce could have foreseen this sort thing, would he have thought it wort while fighting at Bannockburn ?

BANNOCKBURN AT WESTMINSTER. The anniversary was celebrated at th House of Commons by the Scottish Liberal members, who dined in the Harcourt Room, with Mr. Eugene Wason in the stituencies, and who regarded themselves in a sense as the avengers of the great and bloody victory. The English Ministers who sit in the House by the favour of Scuttish votes preferred to keep away. They did not evan send apologies for sheence, but the poet of the Scottish Liberals, Mr Holmes, supplied apologies for them in the following versas.

Prime Minister_ The Bannockburns that I have fought. In recent years with Colonel Sprott Are really quite enough for me : As for the luture, -" Wait and see."

THE PEARL MECKLACE CASE. are attracting much att-ntion, and the Lord Guthrie sa a man whose "life had controversies raging around them will un- been a living lie," and who had "main doubtedly leed to the strengthening of the tained himself on the ruin of men and Ottor demand for a Court of Criminal Appeal in women, living for years in a way that Scharnhorst Scotland. The first case is that of Lieuten many blackguards would scorn to live." ant Cameron, form-rly of the B.A., who was convicted in 1911 of fraudulently claiming £6,500 insurance on a pearl neck lace which Mrs. Camegon said had been Antarctic Expedition, has received a stolen from her but which was never really donation of £24,000 from Sir James Kay Waterland in her possession. An agitation was then raised for the purpose of purging Lieutenant Cameron of the prison taint ; several distinguished people associated themselves with it, and the "Spectator" took upon itself the post of counsel for appellant. THE CAME OF OSCAR SLATER. The other petition, presented on behalf of Oscar Slater, -an Austrian Jew convictors of Oscar Stater,—an Austrian Jew convicted of the murder of Marian Gilchrist, an elderly maiden lady of independent means, in her flat in the West Knd of Glasgow.—
is in a different entegory. The position taken up here is that there has been a mistake in identification. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, with all the prestige of Sherlock Holmes behind him, is the leading counsel for Slater, and behind him is a considerable body of people who contend that the verdict of the jury should at least have been one of "Not proven." As a consequence of the agitation, the Secretary of Scotland instructed the Shariff of Lanarkshire to take "new syldence," this was done, there was a review of it by the highest legal authorities, and (sa has already been stated in this column) the finding was that the evidence of the Crown witnesses at the trial remained unshaken. This "new evidence" has been published as a Parliamentary paper, and the press and the public of Scotland are now constituted a Court of Appeal. It is gathered from the "print" that the position taken up by the friends of Slater was founded upon a statement made by Lieutenant Trench, a detective who was simpleyed in the coars. employed in the case The essential features of his statement were that Holon Room, with Mr. Eugene Wason in the Lambie, the murdered woman's servant, chair. There were present several of the told, a neighbour. Miss Birrell, on the Englishmen who represent Scottish connight of the murder, and Miss Birrell told. Trench, that the man Miss Lambie saw leaving the house was one ". B."-for onvious reasons, the name of "A B." is not published. , and that, shown a sketch which was a "fair representation," of Stater, Miss Lambie could not identify; but when spoken to about "A. B." said, "It's gey funny if was not him I saw." Further, Trench affirmed that the messenger girl Barrowman was not at or near Miss Gilchrist's house when the niurderer rushed out, and that she was on no such errand for her employer as she had described when, as she said, Slater passed her. In support, Trench produced a document alleged to have been obtained from the messenger girt's employer, "in which the girl's story was denied. This would have been in portant evidence for the defence if it had been sustained, and it may be a ked why Trench did not tender it at the time of the trial. Unfortunately for the credibility of his story, not an atom of his evidence bears investigation. Everything is denied. Misa Birrell and Miss Lambie repudiate the narrative in which "A.B." figures so prominently a detective. Keith And at the social board, with honour due, does not recall the production of any sketch of Slater which Miss Lambie could not identify, or rec lest any reference made to "A.B." in his presence the message girl holds to her original statement: the girl's employer entirely disclaims any knowledge of the statements he is said to have made to Trench; Assi-tant Chief-Constable Orr states that he did not remark when he heard, as Trench allegen, of Mis-Lambie's reference to ""A.B." that " this is the first real clue we have got," and denies positively that Trauch came to the Police Office with the statement he pu into the mouths of Miss Birrell and Miss Lambie, or that he gave Trench the sketch of Slater which Trench asserts he'showed to Miss Lambio, from beginning to end." The "Dundee Advertiser" is not a decided. "It describes Lieutenant Trench' story as "sensational," and the Lambie in cident as so astounding that it leaves one in a hopeless sense of mystery and entirely unable to offer an "explanation." On the whole, "it must be said that Trench succeeds in adding to the doubts which have existed in regard to the case eve since it was heard." It is of opinion that "the identification evidencewas undoubted ly weak," and Trench "shows that nothing but shadowy impressions "of the culprit originally existed, and that these latterly materialised in a remarkable way. Doubte as to the identity of Slater must have existed in the minds of the authorities, 'according to the "Advertiser," or Iltis his death sentence would never have been Jaguar commuted. "Slater had no claim for mercy if he were guilty of the crime. Two petitions for the raview of sentences | the trial he was correctly described by Luchs

Where nationalisation has been

increase the number of employees un-risen with startling rapidity, without

This increase is usually more marked in those countries where political successful it is likely to be in the

LABOUR AND STATE OWNER SHIP OF RAILWAYS.

THE advocates of the purchase of railways by the State insist, with some show of reason, on the economies that would result from consolidation by the curtailment of wasteful and competitive expenditure. This argument sounds plausible, but it must be remembered that consolidation does not, and would not, of itself effect economies. It would ferred to Peking. Mr. Fonatsu is now merely afford opportunity for effecting a saving of expenditure, and whether such opportunities would be turned REDUCTIONS IN to account depends on the organisation and incentive of the management Those who press the point have to show that Government officials would Pure Drags, Patent Medicines, &c. better inppreciate these economies and have greater inducement to exer-
